UNITED STATES MAY INTERVENE

Cuban Blacks Are Plundering Country.

RURALES ARE SENT AGAINST THE REBELS

Gomez Says He Can Handle Situation.

Although Conditions in Havana Have Not Become Critical, the Streets Are Under Heavy Military Patrol and Government Buildings Are Under Guard—Revolt Spreading to Various Provinces.

Washington, May 23.—Five hundred marines are ordered to sail from the League Island navy yard, Philadelphia, on the Prairie today to join the force now at the United States naval station at Guantanamo, Cuba. The force is under the command of Colonel Lincoln Karmany.

The order was issued by Secretary of the Navy Meyer, acting on a request from the state department. Rush orders also were issued today to naval stations along the Atlantic coast to hold all marines in readiness for immediate movement.

Wireless orders were sent from Key West to the gunboats Nashville and Paducah, now at Guantanamo, to clear for action and place themselves in position to protect American interests at that point.

Americans in Danger.

Today's movement of marines followed closely on the receipt of disturbing dispatches from Guantanamo, which stated that 3,000 armed negroes are marching toward the United States reservation, pillaging and burning as they go.

A number of important American interests in the neighborhood of Guantanamo and Santiago already have made representation to the department that their property is being seized and the lives of their employes endangered, and have requested that the government of the United States provide adequate protection for them.

Demand Is Made.

In view of these appeals the state department today transmitted to President Gomez, through Minister Beaupre the statement that the United States, while undesirous of interfering in Cuban affairs, must demand that the naval station at Guantanamo, together with the lives and property of American citizens throughout the island, be adequately protected

The Cuban gunboat, Cuba, with 600 troops on board, is expected to arrive at Guantanamo today. The government, apparently unable to estimate the strength of the insurrectionary sentiment, has sent out forces by train to Oriente province. The Cuban military authorities admit the situation is extremely dangerous but think they can control it.

But the First Move.

The state department's action in asking that marines be dispatched to Guantanamo today is believed here to be but the first move in a concerted program of intervention in Cuba—an intervention which practically would mean annexation—as it was stated at the close of the second military occupation of the island three years ago that "if American troops ever have to return to Cuba they would stay there."

The naval station at Guantanamo was ceded to the United States in 1902 at the close of the first military occupation It comprises about sixty square miles and is considered to be the most important naval base on the Atlantic coast. At present, there are about 250 marines at Guantanamo in addition to the gunboats, Nashville and Paducah.

Causes Intense Feeling.

Havana, May 23.—Reports from Washington that the United States is again considering intervention in Cuba because of conditions which have followed the negro uprising are causing intense feeling throughout the island today. President Gomez in a public statement denied that the situation has gotten beyond the Cuban government. He declared that he had no fear of the revolt in the Oriente and Las Villa provinces under control within a short time. numerous troops have been sent against the armed negro bands and fighting is now going on at several places in the interior. It is reported that a number of whites have joined the negroes and are fighting under the banner of the insurgents

President Gomez says the importance of the revolt has been exaggerated in press dispatches and that the United States government has been misled by false information.

Plundering Country.

The rebels have split up into detachments. These bands are plundering the country and driving off livestock. So far the loss is near to $1,000,000. Armed blacks made an outbreak at Pinar del Rio.

Senor Mandu Ley, governor of the province of Oriente, says that 2,700 negro laborers there have rebelled.

Although the situation in this city has not become critical, the streets were under military patrol today and the government buildings were under a heavy guard

It was officially announced by the government that Estenoz and Yvonet, two chief leaders of the rebellious negroes, had asked for a conference with the government and that it had been refused. President Gomez says he will accept nothing but unconditional surrender. Senator Laredo, secretary of state, declared that the revolt will be crushed before night.

TO EXONERATE CAPTAIN SMITH

White Star Line's Intentions Apparent.

INDICATED IN THE BRITISH HEARING

Wireless Warnings Not Given to Smith.

Counsel for Owners of the Titanic Will Call Surviving Ship Officers To Show That While Warnings Are Received, They Are Not Communicated to Ill-Fated Liner's Commander.

London, May 23.—The first indication of the intention of the White Star line to try to exonerate Captain E. J. Smith, of the Titanic, from apparent disregard of radio telegrams warning him of icebergs in the path of the lost steamer came at the resumption of the government's inquiry today. Sir Robert Finlay, chief counsel for the White Star, announced that Joseph Boxhall and Officer Lightoller would probably be recalled. These men were in a position, he thought, to prove that wireless warnings sent by the Messala and the Amerika were not communicated to the captain.

Testimony was introduced showing that the Caronia had signalled the Amerika, warning her that she had passed several dangerous bergs. This information was also given the Titanic, with instructions to send it to Cape Race to be forwarded to the government hydrographic office in Washington.

Harold Bride, wireless operator on the Titanic, swore that the apparatus on the Titanic was working perfectly on the night of the disaster. The first message he remembered having received about the ice floe was from the Californian. He picked up this wireless between 5 and 5:30 in the afternoon. The aerogram said the Californian had passed three bergs. Bride had been called up by another steamer, he said, but did not have to take the message because he was busy making up his accounts.

Postoffice Is Robbed.

600 DELEGATES FOR PRESIDENT

Taft's Strength Not Altered by Ohio Vote.

DIRECTOR M'KINLEY DISCUSSES RESULT

Defeat of Colonel for a Third Term Assured.

Situation Has Not Changed, Except That Taft Is Added to Roosevelt and Cummins as Losing Own State—Outcome in Ohio Only Goes To Solidify the Taft Lines, Says the Taft Manager.

Washington, May 23.—Commenting upon the primary returns from Ohio, Director William B. McKinley, of the national Taft bureau, Wednesday said:

"The outcome of the Ohio primary Tuesday has in no degree altered the relative strength of the various candidates in the Chicago convention. President Taft has gained enough delegates in Ohio to assure him of at least 600 delegates in the Chicago convention.

"The situation has not changed, except to add President Taft to Roosevelt and Senator Cummins as another candidate who has lost his own state Mr Roosevelt lost New York by eighty-three to seven and Senator Cummins lost Iowa by sixteen to ten, both going to Taft.

"President Taft said, when he took the stump in Massachusetts, 'I have only begun to fight.' This statement holds good today. The outcome in Ohio, if it has had any effect at all on the Taft strength in the Chicago convention, has only served to solidify the Tatt lines and make more certain a Taft outcome.

Defeat Is Assured.

"New Jersey, South Dakota and Arizona are yet to act and the president will have a majority from those states. The defeat of Theodore Roosevelt for a third term is assured."

McKinley says Roosevelt was favored in having Walter Brown the "boss" of the state, run his campaign and that Brown was actuated by no other motive than that "President Taft has refused to appoint political judges on the federal bench suggested by him."

McKinley further charges Brown has been sponsor for the last two state tickets, "both of which have been repudiated by the rank and file of the party."

Dr. Gorton never drank intoxicating liquors, does not use tobacco and confines himself almost entirely to a vegetarian diet.

FOUR KILLED IN BUDAPEST RIOT

Troops, Led by the Cavalry, Charge Mob.

POLICE POWERLESS TO CLEAR STREETS

The Rioters Destroy Property About City.

Five Times the Soldiers Charge the Maddened Mob, Which Is Made Up of Social-Democratic Party Members, but Are Driven Back. Order To Fire Is Given and Nearly 200 Fall.

Budapest, May 23.—Fierce rioting broke out this afternoon in the strike of the employes of the public service corporations controlled by the Social-Democratic party. Four men were reported killed and 150 others seriously injured. Some of the injured are in such a critical condition that they will probably die.

Rioting broke out during a monster demonstration, when strikers paraded through the streets, carrying banners. Soldiers were sent against the rioters. The men and women in the mob fought back and for a time it was feared that the soldiers would not be able to clear the streets.

The victims were shot to death by the soldiers, who were compelled to fire several volleys before the frantic rioters were dispersed. Ten thousand troops were sent against the rioters and for a time hand-to-hand fighting raged The scene approached that of a revolution.

The members of the mob had started out orignally to make a demonstration by marching before the government buildings. Singing revolutionary ongs and screaming curses at members of the government the marchers paraded through the principal thoroughfares.

Tumult Is Great.

The tumult became so great that the police tried to clear the streets, but were unsuccessful. The rioters attacked street cars, overturning them into barricades. Automobiles and carriages were held up and overturned in the streets.

The police were bombarded with volley after volley of stones. Filled with a wanton spirit of violence the rioters smashed all the windows within reach, tore down doors and shutters of shops. It was finally decided to call out the troops, which

STATE CONTROL A GRAND PRIZE

Late Returns Show Roosevelt in Lead.

A STATEMENT COMES FROM HEADQUARTERS

Colonel May Get Thirty-Two Delegates.

Manager Brown Is Reticent on Subject of Domination of Ohio Republican Gathering, but Laylin, for Taft, Insists President Has a Big Bunch of Votes To Spare in Naming the Big Six.

Columbus, O., May 23.—According to estimates made at Roosevelt headquarters here, friends of the colonel are quite likely to be in control of the Republican state convention which meets here June 3 and 4 to name the six delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention. Colonel Roosevelt will have 32 of the 42 district delegates from Ohio A careful compilation, based on reports from every one of the 88 counties of the state gives him 389 delegates against 368 for President Taft.

In many instances these returns only show the tendency of the counties reporting. The county conventions to name delegates to the state convention are yet to be held, and there is a possibility that estimates of control of the county conventions may be in error

Rural Districts Against Taft.

The tabulation gives Mr. Taft Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Montgomery and Mahoning counties and one-third of the 31 Franklin county delegates. Despite the aid of 140 from the two largest counties, the president seemed to be unable to carry enough of the smaller counties to land the necessary 379, a majority

Taft's manager, L. C. Laylin, claimed that the president is already assured of more than 400 state delegates and that domination of the state convention by the president's forces will be easy State Chairman Brown made no special claim to the state convention

With a certainty that the Seventh district delegation is split between Taft and Roosevelt, both sides in the figures stand at 32 for the colonel and 19 for Taft Mr. Laylin claims both Third district men and said the Taft delegates might number 13.

If marriage is a failure, why is the average widow so persistent?

SHELVE HERESY CHARGES A YEAR

Presbyterians Dislike To Discuss Matter.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY IS NEARING CLOSE

Methodists Work Actively in Minneapolis.

Delegates Are Rushing Mass of Detail Business So as To Have Everything Cleaned Up by Adjournment Date, May 28—Four Bishops Are Yet To Be Elected. Balloting Continued Today.

Louisville, Ky., May 23.—That the general assembly of the Presbyterian church will come to a close without any heresy charges being brought to the front seems certain. The Union seminary case, which was a sequel of the famous Briggs case, was quickly disposed of by granting another year's time in which to endeavor to establish amicable relations between the assembly and the seminary.

Charges of unorthodox teachings in the graded lessons and that some of the members of the board of publication and Sabbath school work were not orthodox caused a flurry in Wednesday evening's session, but it was quickly settled, after a vehement denial of the charge had been made by a ruling of Moderator Mark Matthews that such insinuations will not be permitted before the assembly in the future.

Drastic Action Taken.

The assembly then authorized the appointment of a committee with power to withdraw from circulation any graded lessons found objectionable,

The most drastic action the assembly has taken, was the adoption of the resolution which recosidered the election of Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson as a delegate to the Pan-Presbyterian council in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1913, because he acted as chairman of the Brewers' congress in Chicago last year "in the face of a mighty protest from the religious forces of our land." This action of the assembly bars Wilson and makes it necessary for the synod of Baltimore to name another in his place.

Work Every Minute.

Minneapolis, May 23.—With the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church devoting every minute possible to the transaction of business, it is believed the mass of detail work mapped out for it will be completed by the time for adjournment, May 28. Many important matters are still to come up, but every effort will be made to expedite them, and it is believed the recommendations still pending can be acted upon.

Four bishops are yet to be elected The fifteenth ballot added Rev. Naptali Luccock, of Kansas City, to those already chosen, and the result of the sixteenth ballot was to be announced during the morning session The delegates feel confident that the threatened deadlock in election that would make it impossible to fill the places recommended by the board of bishops has been avoided.

The seventeenth ballot for bishop resulted in no election. The conference took an eighteenth ballot.

Episcopal Residences.

The conference today decided to establish episcopal residences in the following cities:

Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Washington, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Chattanooga, Atlanta, New Orleans, Kansas City, Kansas; St. Paul, Omaha, Oklahoma City, Denver, Helena, San Francisco, Portland, Peking, Foo Chow, Zurich, Buenos Ayres. The new residences are at Helena, Kansas City, Kansas, and Atlanta.

The conference also decided against establishing any foreign episcopal residences, that at Zurich, Switzerland, being maintained.

PRESIDENT TAFT IN NEW JERSEY

Is Scheduled To Stump Every County of State.

ROOSEVELT ALSO STARTS INVASION

La Follette Is Already in New Jersey.

Steals March on Taft and the Colonel by Invading State and Making Speeches Hours Before Opponents Enter It—Roosevelt's Supporters Active, Preparing for the June Convention.

Washington, May 23.—President Taft, accompanied by Secretary Hilles and Major Rhoades, his military aide, left Washington this morning at 7 o'clock for Philadelphia where, this afternoon, he will formally open the annual convention of the International Navigation congress at the Metropolitan opera house.

To-night, at Camden, Taft will begin his campaign for votes in New Jersey. He will remain in New Jersey until noon next Tuesday, and during the intervening time he will stump every county in the state. The polls will open next Tuesday at 1 o'clock for the primary, and the president, by remaining until one hour before the voting, will thus establish a new precedent. In the past he has quit campaigning the night before the balloting.

The president's itinerary in New Jersey has been so arranged that he will follow the footsteps of Colonel Roosevelt.

Colonel Starts Out.

New York, May 23.—Theodore Roosevelt came into town from Oyster Bay early this morning, going directly to the Outlook office preparatory to opening his New Jersey campaign. He remained there until a little after 10 o'clock when he left for Paterson, New Jersey, where he was scheduled to make his first speech this afternoon.

As the colonel left, he was in jovial spirits. He refused to make any prophecies of the New Jersey result, although he seemed confident of scoring another victory He refused to say anything about Senator La Follette, who stole a march on his opponents in the triangular Jersey fight between President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt and Senator La Follette by entering the field before the others, and speaking in Jersey City last night.

The Work Is Started.

Chicago, May 23.—Active work toward forming the Illinois delegation to the Republican national convention, a nucleus of a working force to nominate Theodore Roosevelt, began today. This activity followed the second conference of the delegates at which the Roosevelt boom was discussed.

A committee of seven members was named to write every delegate pledged to Roosevelt, telling them that the Illinois delegation had held meetings to plan ways to help nominate the colonel at the Chicago convention and suggesting that they do likewise. They also suggest that each state delegation send representatives to Chicago in advance of the convention to arrange for cooperation between the Roosevelt men.

Country Can Stand It.

New York, May 23.—The contest being waged between Colonel Roosevelt and President Taft was today declared by Andrew Carnegie to be "humiliating," as he sailed for Europe.

"The situation is humiliating, but then I never despair of the republic," said Mr. Carnegie. "It bears a charmed life and no doubt will live through the situation."

GIRL'S SLAYER DIES IN CHAIR

Richeson Atones for Crime in Massachusetts.

HE MEETS HIS FATE LIKE STOIC OF OLD

Declares He Makes Peace with His God

My God Will Take Care of My Soul and I Pray for All I Forgive Every One Says Richeson Just Before Current Is Applied and in Less Than Two Minutes Pastor-Slayer Is Pronounced Dead

Boston, May 21—At 12 1 this morning the electrician in the state prison threw the switch which put an end to the career of Clarence V I Richeson the self confessed murderer of Miss Avis Linnell and a former Baptist clergyman The first shock caused instant death and at 12 11 Richeson was pronounced dead by the attending physician

The condemned met death with composure as he said he would He stepped from his cell into the corridor and through a door into the death chamber When he had taken 11 paces he was in front of the electric chair He took his seat in it the straps and electrodes were quickly put in place The four guards who had accompanied him from his cell and Chaplain Stebbins who preceded him into the room stepped back Warden Bridges raised his cane as a signal and in the next second Richeson's spirit had left his body

It was learned that among the envelopes sent to the prison addressed to the condemned man was one which contained a blank sheet of paper in which was a small quantity of white powder Warden Bridges had it analyzed and the powder proved to be cyanide of potassium the same kind of poison that Richeson used to encompass the death of Miss Linnell The envelope was postmarked New York city Had the powder reached Richeson he could have committed suicide

Last night the prisoner asked that his nails be manicured He has been endeavoring to cleanse them with a piece of folded paper not being permitted to have any pointed metal instrument The guard performed the task which seemed to please Richeson immensely

Barber Shaves Head

Three hours before midnight Henry T McGrill who does the barbering in the prison went to the cell and cut off a considerable quantity of Richeson's coal black hair and shaved a spot on his head about twice the size of a silver dollar On this spot rested the electrode which was placed on the condemned man's head the second he took his seat in the chair Shortly afterward Richeson was told he must put on the clothing which had been sent to him This seemed to annoy Richeson somewhat He locked the trousers over and commented upon their cut and as for the shirt he could not bear to pull it down over his shoulders The left leg of the trousers was slit nearly to the knee and this interested the prisoner also but he asked no questions knowing full well that it was there to permit the quiet application of the other electrode to him The clergyman prayed with him constantly as the final hour drew near and Richeson repeated many chapters from the Scriptures

The gates of the prison yards were closed and none was permitted to enter who did not have business there Just before midnight the legal witnesses reached the prison and were introduced to each other

They went into the warden's office and met some of the other men who were to witness the execution Electrician Currier was in the room behind a screen

After the straps had been adjusted across his thighs legs and chest and before the death dealing current of 1 000 volts was turned on Richeson was asked a series of questions by his spiritual adviser Dr Morse replied in a clear voice Mr I will take care of my soul and I pray for all I forgive everybody

The last of the questions which was Are you willing to die for Jesus sake? Richeson replied in an even tone I am willing to die

Richeson has feared all along since he learned that he was to die that as soon as breath had passed from his body the physicians were going to dissect his body Upon leaving the prison Mr Morse attorney for Richeson said

Dies at Peace With World

Richeson is going to die without holding a grudge against anyone He talked to me calmly about his funeral He said he wished to be buried in Virginia and it appears that this will be done He told when and how he wished to be buried He gave a list of the hymns that he wished sung at his funeral Most of them were familiar One of the hymns was not familiar to me He asked me if I knew it and I replied in the negative Then he hummed the tune over to me He told me about the disposition of his little trinkets

Mr Morse was willing to be present in the death chamber when the execution took place but as the law does not permit of his doing so he came to the prison and remained by Richeson's cell until the latter was led forth to the chair

That the body will be taken to Virginia became a certainty In a statement made by Medical Examiner McGrath after a consultation with Attorney Morse he said I called to see what arrangements Morse as counsel for Richeson made for the disposal of the body Richeson's body will be taken south immediately an autopsy has been performed

Richeson passed the last 24 hours of his stay on earth in much the same way that he spent the previous days He slept over three hours stated Rev Herbert S Johnson pastor of Stoneham the town Richeson had lived in and expressed his fraternities to Wilmina Adams of Stoneham Because he planned from end to end so long Richeson was in a mighty weakened condition

The condemned man was said to meet his fate like the gallant soldier he had declared he would be when he was doomed to die Richeson was a member of the Stoneham Baptist church but was dropped from the membership roll when he was convicted of murder

THE TONGUE TEST

By William T Ellis

The International Sunday-School Lesson for May 26 Is "Truthfulness" Matthew 5 33-37, James 3 1-12, 5 12

The advertising men of the country have been meeting in Dallas this month prosecuting their great work of reforming the advertising business and fixing high the standard that all goods shall be as represented Now that this calling which has proverbially been associated with overstatement has come to stand for science and substantiated speech we may even expect a reformation in the calling of the angelic and religious promoters who have counted exaggeration pardonable in their work

Many currents of reform are sweeping through our time and not a few of them within the confines of the church It would be a far reaching achievement if all overstatement and distortion in one sidedness could be eliminated from the speech of those who officially represent Christianity There is no denying that secretaries and promoters generally are prone to make exaggerated statements concerning their causes and their successes It would be well for them to bear in mind the incident related by Mr Moody A woman once came to him and said Mr Moody how can I cure myself of my habit of exaggeration? Call it lying madam call it lying replied the blunt prophet Untruthfulness should be more reprehensible even than part of the advantages of a carnival of religious convention upon the part of a circus or a theatrical performance

The Lighting Word

Civilization has always aid particularly sincere hearted call to treat with the heinousness of falsehood To call a man a liar is to challenge him to fight because everybody perceives even though dimly that the character of a man is bound up in the integrity of his word The Bible but expresses the sense of civilization when it pours out condemnation on untruthfulness

This Sunday school lesson taken from the words of Jesus and of James applies the tongue test to character

Words are a proof of life and an evidence of one's religion or irreligion For every spoken word man must give account It has been common to scoff at impiety but there is a form of impiety that is true to the spirit of the gospel—the piety that expresses itself in true tender helpful sympathetic speech

Is your temper to reveal

A tale some one told you has told About another makes you pass

Before you speak unless it is of gold

Three narrow gates—first is it true?

Then is it needful? In your mind Give truthful answer and the next is last and narrowest is it kind?

An American Sin

A profitable diversion is to listen to the scraps of conversation that one overhears on the highways Frankly the experience does not give one any very deep sense of the restraint or wisdom of the words that men and women are speaking Superlative adjectives are sprinkled through common speech like raisins in a mince pie Simply awful and perfectly lovely are not commonly reserved for the great and stimulating objects they are likely to refer to as a name for a dish of ice cream The indiscriminateness of the common use of adjectives dishearten one no lover of his mother tongue in its purity As Ian Maclaren pointed out in one of his sermons men lack adjectives for the twenty first chapter of Revelations We have gone a long way from the plain speech of the Society of Friends Quaint talk is picturesque but it is often as meaningless as the chatter of the monkeys

The tongue to be free from time include the witless use of slang and the tendency to coin careless and vulgar innuendoes The youth of today is unrestrained and extravagant in speech and also inclined to disrespect and irreverence Simple sober strong speech comes out of fashion The value of key words and weighty not perceived by the new generation Its Sunday school lessons timely it causes a few million young people to put a question mark before their own manner of speech

The Orients Reviling

The East is forever swearing by something The usage which Jesus condemns continues to this day in the land of the Book Yet the East is not so profane as the West Its speech is viler but it does not blaspheme the name of the Deity It tends to foul reviling but it can scarcely match the inane and senseless and irreverent profanity of this western world We seriously need the instruction But above all things may we hear him speak no

Anybody who has given thought to the prevailing profanity confesses that its first characteristic is stupidity The great words that are used in such light and common fashion are merely the vehicle of incompetent brains Most persons who are profane are such because they have not the wit to convey their sentiments in original sentences The man who can express his mind in his own words has more bite to his condemnation than the other who rolls out a string of inapplicable and inconsequential oaths It is the lowest type of men who swear most Everybody must welcome the popularity of the Holy Name society of the Roman Catholic church which teaches its members to revere the Holy Name of God

The Best and the Worst

James was not the first nor the last to marvel over the tongue and its paradoxical uses He likened it to a bit in the horse's mouth to the helm of a great ship to a fountain that sent forth waters both sweet and bitter to a tree bearing figs and olives to a spring of blessing and cursing That such an agency for good or evil is put in the keeping of every man is one of the highest tributes to the sovereignty of the human soul No creature has this power save only man made in the image of God The tongue may be the best of it may be the worst about man An old fable is quoted by Peloubet's notes

The philosopher Xanthus ordered his servant Aesop to prepare for a certain important occasion a banquet of the very best he had The feast proved to consist merely of tongues— tongues of many animals cooked in many fashions When the indignant philosopher summoned the steward Aesop defended himself by showing how the tongue is the very best being the organ of prayer and exhortation of wise judgment in the courts and courageous command in battle the organ that teaches and comforts and cheers and advises and promises and inspires Well said Xanthus if that is the case make haste and prepare another feast and give us this time the very worst you have The steward obeyed but the second time he sent on tongues tongues nothing but tongues Why is this asked the angry Xanthus Master said the wise steward the tongue is the worst as well as the best Both come treasons and lies and slanders It is the organ of anger and evil passion But it is also the organ of prayer and praise and speeches that are holy and righteous and heavenly That is the reason Aesop replied why I sent on tongues for every other dish may be spoiled in the cooking but the tongue will take care of itself and is sure to be delicious

The last of the questions which was Are you willing to die for Jesus sake? Richeson replied in an even tone I am willing to die

Richeson has feared all along since he learned that he was to die that as soon as breath had passed from his body the physicians were going to dissect his body Upon leaving the prison Mr Morse attorney for Richeson said

Dies at Peace With World

Richeson is going to die without holding a grudge against anyone He talked to me calmly about his funeral He said he wished to be buried in Virginia and it appears that this will be done He told when and how he wished to be buried He gave a list of the hymns that he wished sung at his funeral Most of them were familiar One of the hymns was not familiar to me He asked me if I knew it and I replied in the negative Then he hummed the tune over to me He told me about the disposition of his little trinkets

Mr Morse was willing to be present in the death chamber when the execution took place but as the law does not permit of his doing so he came to the prison and remained by Richeson's cell until the latter was led forth to the chair

TO HAVE FREE USE OF CANAL

American-Owned Vessels Are Favored.

HOUSE ADOPTS THE DOREMUS AMENDMENT

The Adoption Is Greeted with Cheering.

The Principal Fight on Panama Canal Bill Is on Free Tolls Amendment for Yankee Ships, Which Is Adopted by Record Vote of 147 to 126—Committee Report Is Turned Down in House.

Washington, May 23.—On a roll call the house adopted the Doremus amendment to the Panama canal bill providing that American-owned vessels engaged in the coastwise trade shall have free use of the Panama canal.

The bill as reported by the ways and means committee provided that tolls be assessed against the ships of the house overturned the committee action by a vote of 147 to 126. The adoption of the amendment was greeted with loud cheering, members from the Pacific coast being especially enthusiastic.

The principal fight on the bill was on the free tolls amendment for American ships which was adopted by a record vote of 147 to 126.

Prior to the passage of the bill, the house voted down an amendment proposed by Representative Broussard, of Louisiana, which proposed to give the president discretion to exclude railroad-owned ships from the canal. The Broussard amendment, which was offered as a substitute for section eleven, was overwhelmingly defeated by a vote of 206 to sixty-three.

The Provisions.

As passed, section eleven, which relates to railroad-owned ships provides that no railroad company subject to the interstate commerce laws shall own stock directly or indirectly in a steamship line with which the railroad carrier does or may compete. The Interstate Commerce commission is given power to determine when there is competition or lack of it, and may issue orders forbidding connections between railroad and competing water carriers. This section is construed to mean that not only will railroad-owned ships be excluded from the canal, but that they may be prevented from handling commerce on any water subject to the interstate act.

In inserting this section in the bill, Chairman Adamson, of the interstate commerce committee, said the committee had deemed it wise not only to shut out from the canal ships dominated by railroads but to broaden the interstate commerce act so as to prevent any railroad from controlling a competing steamship line.

Court of Last Resort.

Under the section of the bill passed today, the Interstate Commerce commission is made a court of last resort to determine whether a steamship company is dominated by railroad influences.

The Panama canal bill further provides that the big waterway shall be governed as follows:

The president is authorized when, in his opinion, advisable, to discontinue the present Isthmian canal commission. The president is then made responsible for the conduct of the canal, but the senate must confirm the nomination by the president of the governor of the canal zone.

Tolls are not to exceed $1.25 a ton and are to be assessed according to regulations prescribed by the president. The $1.25 limit is to be based on net registered tonnage. The president is authorized to establish wireless stations on the canal and to maintain and operate docks, wharves, warehouses and other facilities for the accommodation of navigation through the big ditch.

Courts To Be Named.

When the canal commission is relieved of its responsibility and the president assumes virtual dictatorship over the canal, it is provided that in addition to the governor of the canal, magistrates and district courts shall be named. The magistrates' courts will have jurisdiction over minor offenses and of civil cases in sums not exceeding $300.

The district court will be in two divisions, one at each terminal of the canal.

District attorney, marshals and other court officials are provided for; the judge, attorney and marshals of the court are to be appointed for terms of four years each, with the consent of the senate. Jury trials are provided in the district court, but not in the magistrates' courts.

Appeals Can Be Taken.

Appeals from the district courts of the canal zone may be taken to the circuit court of appeals of the Fifth circuit of the United States.

The bill provides that all persons are to be excluded from the canal zone except employes of the United States, soldiers, sailors and marines. The governor is authorized to extend special permission to tourists and others, who desire to go upon the canal property.

In the event of the approach of war, the president is given authority to transfer the jurisdiction of the canal to the army.

The bill confirms and ratifies existing laws relating to the acquisition and government of the canal and those under which it is being constructed. The president is also authorized to acquire by treaty any additional territory outside of the canal zone proper which may be necessary to effectuate the purpose of the original grant.

LATE RETURNS CHANGE STORY

Harmon's Majority Is Greatly Reduced.

GETS ABOUT HALF OF THE DELEGATES

Governor Loses Own County of Hamilton.

Harmon's Friends Are Expecting To Control State Convention, but There Is Nothing To Indicate Their Grip Will Be Firm Enough To Permit Them To Invoke the Unit Rule.

Columbus, O., May 23. — Although he has carried the state over Woodrow Wilson by 12,000 or upwards, Governor Harmon has not fared so well in later reports from Tuesday's primaries, and there is a chance that he will not get more than 27 out of 42 district delegates to the national convention at Baltimore.

There seems to be no doubt that the governor has lost his home county of Hamilton in a tight race. He has carried the Third district by a narrow margin of less than 500 votes, but has lost the preference vote in the Ninth and Nineteenth, in addition to the Twentieth and Twenty-first districts.

National Committeeman Garber claimed half of the district delegates, but included in his count Messrs. Hanley and Sohngen of the Third, who have declared for the governor.

Will Invoke Unit Rule.

The governor's friends are expected to control the state convention, and there has been nothing to indicate their grip on it will no be firm enough to permit them to invoke the unit rule, which will mean a solid Ohio delegation of 48 for Harmon at Baltimore.

Although the governor carried the Thirteenth district by 2,100, he will lose one delegate. William Homer Reinhart, anti-Harmon man, is elected in the district, due to a split in the Harmon vote between three candidates running as Harmon men.

The present indications are the governor has lost the two Eighth district delegates and two in the Fourth district. He seems to have carried both districts in the presidential preference vote, however.

He has lost one delegate in the Ninth, one in the Tenth, one in the Thirteenth, probably [illegible] the city, teenth, two in the Nineteenth, two in the Twentieth and one in the Twenty-first.

LaRue, O., May 23.—[Special.]—One of th really delightful social affairs of the season was a linen shower givn by Miss Edith Marsh at her home, Friday evening, honoring Miss Faye Hesser, who is to an early June bride. The rooms were pretty decorated with violets lilacs and wild wood blooms. Music and conversation were enjoyed by all. A very pretty feature of the affair was the manner of presenting the gifts. As a wedding march was being played by Miss Ella Marsh, little Miss Margret Hune, attired as a bride, entered the parlor where the guests were assembled, and with much dignty presented the gifts to the bride. The hostess gave a reading entitled "Social Climbers" which caused much merriment. Miss Farol Marmon also entertained at an eight-o'clock breakfast at the home of G. E. Copeland, Monday, in honor of Miss Hesser. The table was prettily decorated with southern smilax. The center piece was fashioned as a pond with water lilies, moss and stones. A fine breakfast was served.

A very pleasent company of relatives and friends met at the Marsh home, Sunday, in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Elenor Dickason. Mrs. Dickason received many congratulations and well wishes in addition to pretty gifts. The main feature of the dinner was the birthday cake which was quite an art in cake building. The colors were pink and white, and the design brought out was "Grandma, Eighty-Five Years Young."

HARMON WINS OVER WILSON

Gets All but Two Congressional Districts.

CLEVELAND MAYOR CONTROLS CUYAHOGA

Progressives Are Mum Over Their Defeat.

Bryan's Two Tours Do Not Accomplish Results Expected by Faction of Democratic Party Which Seeks To Encompass Governor Harmon's Defeat—Garber May Pull Through.

Columbus, O., May 22.—Governor Harmon has swept Ohio over Woodrow Wilson in the presidential preference primary.

Outside of Cuyahoga county, which went against him by more than two to one, he carried Franklin county by two and a half to one, ran a hot race with Wilson in Cincinnati, the governor's home city, won out by a narrow margin in Dayton and lost by a narrow margin in Toledo. He lost the city of Akron, but carried nearly every other city in the state, including those in which bitter opponents live.

In 268 precincts, exclusive of Cuyahoga county, the vote is Harmon 7,084 to 2,905 for Wilson. The vote is nearly uniform in much of the state except in Montgomery and Lucas counties, where the governor is apparently lagging in the race. Weather is said to be responsible for the light vote.

So far Harmon delegates to the national convention are surely elected in the First and Second districts (Hamilton county), in the Fifth, northwest section of Ohio; Eighth and Eleventh, and probably in the Sixth, Seventh and Thirteenth. The Eighteenth district is close.

Harmon's state manager, E. H. Moore, is one of the candidates and claims his election, but Congressman J. J. Whitacre seems to be a runner-up. He left for Washington, conceding defeat and promising to get out of politics. Senator Pomerene claimed the state for Governor Harmon.

The Eighth district, which apparently has gone for Harmon, is the nome of W. W. Durbin, secretary of the Garber-Lentz-Durbin pioneer progressive faction, while the Eleventh is the home of John H. Blacher, treasurer of the league which the faction organized. President John J. Lentz lives in Columbus, which went overwhelmingly for Harmon.

The Fourth district, on the basis of early returns, is claimed for Governor Harmon, but the result is in doubt. It is the former home of Harvey C. Garber, who took to cover when first precincts rolled in.

On returns so far, every one of the anti-Harmon leaders has been repudiated except Mayor Newton D. Baker, who swung Cleveland from Harmon to Wilson.

The pioneer progressives, who brought Colonel Bryan twice to Ohio to make attacks on Governor Harmon, issued no statement.

CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 23.—There were advances of ½ to ⅞c in wheat this morning on the strength in the cables and talk of continued small receipts not only in the Northwest, but at primary markets as well. While the reports of hot winds in Kansas are not likely to become a serious factor in the wheat market, there was some buying on these claims today.

Corn was as much as ¼ to ½c higher early, but part of this was lost on increased offerings. Weather is fine throughout the entire corn country.

Oats were up ⅛ to ¾c and firm.

Hog products were higher all around with hogs.

Wheat—May, 1.16½; July, 1.11 to 1.11⅜; Sept., ranged 1.05¾ to 1.06¼.

Corn—May, 82 to 82½; July, 77 to 77⅛; Sept., 74¼@¾.

Oats—May, 53⅞ to 54; July, 50½ to ¾; Sept., 42¾.

Lard—July, 10.82; Sept., 11.02 to 11.00.

Ribs—July, 10.40@10.42; Sept., 10.57 to 10.55.

Wheat closed weak and lower this afternoon, final prices showing losses of ½c in May, ¾@½c on July and ½@⅝c on September. The early bulge on hot weather in the Southwest and crop damage claims was followed late in the day by a sharp slump on heavy realizing sales.

Corn was ¼ to ½c lower at the finish. The early strength faded away under profit taking.

Oats were ⅛ to ¼c lower. The market broke sharply with the other grains under profit taking sales.

Provisions closed sharply lower under selling pressure. Light demand failed to absorb the offerings.

William H. Holverstott had the race all to himself for member of the Buckeye legislature, and polled a vote of 1,678.

For probate judge, James H. Eymon was the only entry. Without a canvass he pulled down a grand total of 1,477.

The next place on the ticket developed the first contest. C. W Davdson pulled out as the canddate for Clerk, receiving 1,109 votes to 717 for W. H. Harrington, a majority of 402. The city's vote on these candidates was: Davidson, 768; Harrington, 328.

The plurality of Merchant is 167 and that of Messenger, twenty-two. The county vote was. L. M. Thompson 1,269; J. R. Merchant, 1,150; J. C. Messenger, 1,005; W. H. Nesbitt, 988, O. E. Thomas, 945. To apply varnish to dining-room or bedroom chairs that have many rungs or slender back supports that splatter the varnish when it is applied with a brush, use a soft, lintless cloth, not too large. Pour the varnish into a small vessel, adding turpentine to make it rather thin This method is quicker than using a brush, and the effect is better, for the varnish does not run.

AFFIDAVIT DOES NOT STATE AN OFFENSE

Matter of John Redd Is Remanded to Mayor's Court.

RULING OF COURT IS RECEIVED HERE FRIDAY

Redd Is Found Guilty and Fined by Mayor for Operating a Moving-Picture Show on Sunday—Many Witnesses Before the Grand Jury. Some Court Items.

The case of John Redd, moving-picture show proprietor, who was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Claude D. Walters for keeping his theater open on Sunday, April 7, 1912, has been reversed on a technicality and remanded back to the mayor's court for retrial.

Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, held that the mayor was without jurisdiction and that the affidavit did not state an offense. He therefore found error.

The only thing that the mayor could have lawfully done in the case of Redd, who was charged with violation of the Sunday amusement law by keeping his moving-picture theater open on April 7, 1912, was to hold him to the grand jury provided, after a preliminary hearing, he found probable cause of his guilt.

Redd was found guilty and fined $25 and costs by Mayor Claude D. Walters, April 12, 1912, and the execution of sentence was suspended on motion of Redd's counsel until the cause could be heard and determined by a higher court.

L. E. Myers, Redd's counsel, immediately prosecuted error to the court of common pleas.

Judge Babst's ruling was received by County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter, Friday afternoon.

In the suit of the Erie Railroad company against the Marion Railway, Light & Power company, the demurrer to the petition has been overruled and the defendant has been given leave to plead by June 1.

When the grand jury convened last Monday, it was thought that it would wind up its deliberations in short order and that no more than thirty-five witnesses would be examined. Up to date the number of witnesses examined is seventy-six. Friday afternoon, Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice gave Clerk W. W. Klinefelter the names of ten more persons to subpoena. They are held sub rosa.

In the divorce action of Lilliam E. Henry against Err Henry, the defendant, through Eymon & Thompson, Friday morning, filed an answer, setting up a general denial.

In the suit of the Marion County Bank company against J. G. Mann, Clark Dix and B. B. McVey, the latter, through Mouser & Moloney, last Saturday filed an answer saying he is simply a guarantor and that Mann and Dix are primarily liable. He avers that they are financially able to pay the note and that he should not be compelled to pay any portion of it. He asks that the plaintiff be forced to pursue his remedy against the other defendants.

In the local-option error case of Jacob Weber against the State of Ohio, Weber, through Attorney L. E. Myers, Saturday, filed a motion for a new trial. Thursday Judge W. E. Scofied sustained Mayor John G. Seiter, who fined Weber $200 and costs for violation of the Rose law. The usual grounds of errors are set up.

In the suit of G. Elliott Stayner against the State of Ohio, the plaintiff has filed a petition for a new trial by Attorney L. E. Myers. Stayner was arrested and fined $50 for violation of the Rose local option law by the mayor and Judge W. E. Scofield sustained the lower court.

Monday, Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, granted the application of Receivers George Whysall and Fred E. Guthery, of the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railway company, to effect a settlement for $100 with the parents of John E. Brunner, who was struck and killed by a C., M. & B. car, April 21, 1912.

In their application, filed Saturday, the receivers represented that the payment of the claim would be less than required to defend a suit, even if the railway company be not liable.

Brunner was killed when trying to signal a car with a lighted match.

The reply of Daniel L. Brady to the amended answer and cross petition of Christian Houk, has been filed by Crissinger & Guthery in the suit over a farm brought by E. Anderson against Benjamin E. Tonguet and others. He asks that the deed of conveyance executed and delivered to Christian Houk by Sarah E. Tonguet and Michael Tonguet be cancelled and held for naught; that the premises be sold as previously ordered by the court, July 12, 1905, and that the proceeds be distributed according to the priorities, except that the amount decreed Sarah E. Tonguet be paid first to the Fahey Banking company to apply on the mortgage set up in its answer and cross-petition, not exceeding $2,000, less the costs, and the balance to Christian Houk; also that Christian Houk be required to account for the rents and profits of the farm in question from the date of his occupation, beginning February 17, 1907.

Judge William E. Scofield, Monday morning, allowed a temporary injunction against County Treasury R. S. Dombaugh restraining him from collecting $605 Dow tax with a penalty thereon in the sum of $121.08 from the firm of Samuel N. Abel and Charles M. Coonrod, known as Abel & Coonrod. In the petition, filed by Mouser & Moloney, it is set up by the firm that County Auditor Jay Spaulding wrongfully and without legal authority placed the liquor tax and penalty against the plaintiffs, claiming the tax to be due for a period immediately preceding October 15, 1911, and that he is now threatening to levy upon the property of the plaintiffs, who claim that they were not engaged in the business of trafficking in intoxicating liquors at that time.

An answer, asking that the cause of action be dismissed, has been filed by Fred J. Crafts and others, defendants in a suit brought against them by the Luse Land & Development company. The defendants say that the note set up by the plaintiff company was executed and delivered in lieu of earnest money on a written contract for lands in the province of Saskatchewan, Canada, and it was agreed that if the land was not then owned by the Luse Land & Development company the agreement should be void and the earnest money which the note represented refunded. It is claimed that the company did not own the lands at the time. The answer was filed by Attorney J. Wilbur Jacoby.

In the suit of the Citizens Building & Loan company against Millie J. Baldwin and others, Judge W. E. Scofield, Monday morning, found in favor of Millie J. Baldwin and against Joseph Price, who sued in his cross-petition on an alleged breach of contract. Attorney J. Wilbur Jacoby was allowed $25 counsel fees and the balance of $75 is to be paid to the Marion County bank.

The suits of W. H. Hinklin against Lloyd DeGolley, administrator, and H. W. Sager against Lloyd DeGolley, administrator, both of which were appealed from the probate court, have been passed for settlement.

In the partition suit of David A. Cone against Susie L. Cone, the report of the commissioners-in-partition was approved and confirmed by Judge W. E. Scofield, Monday. The plaintiff elected to take the premises described in the petition. He was autobrized to pay all the purchase price in cash instead of giving notes for deferred installments.

Judge Scofield has found for the plaintiff in the suit of Minerva Drake against C. P. Bartram and others, an action to quiet title in 49½ feet off the west end of inlot No. 42, in the city, as designated on the original plat of the town.

John T. Shuck, an Erie switchman, defendant in an action for a divorce brought by Catherine Shuck, who was ordered to pay $35 a month temporary alimony, must appear before Judge W. E. Scofield, next Monday, and show cause why he ought not to be punished for contempt for the violation of the court's order. Shuck was cited to appear next Monday by the court last Monday.

MARION PARTY IS IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Tire of Front Wheel Explodes and a Spill Follows.

ALL PASSENGERS ARE SOMEWHAT BRUISED

Little Miss Stark Is the Most Seriously Injured—Is Unconscious for a Time—Witness States That Machine Turns Completely Around. All Are Doing Well.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hinamon and Mr. and Mrs. John G. Stark and daughter, Isabelle, aged three years, had a narrow escape from fatal injuries when the former's automobile threw them out about two miles east of Agosta shortly before 12 o'clock Sunday noon. The accident was due to the right front tire exploding. The party was returning from an auto ride to Marseilles, and at the time the accident occurred the party was traveling about twenty miles an hour.

Mr. Hinamon and Mr. Stark were riding in the front seats, the other occupants being in the tonneau. The party left Marion about 9 o'clock and visited Marseilles about ten minutes. They then started on the trip home. Mr. Hinamon was taking his time on the trip and reached the highest speed of the journey when the accident occurred. When the tire exploded the machine swung almost completely around, and turned over to the left side of the road. It was standing in running position, but was headed in the opposite direction to that which the party had been traveling.

The occupants of the automobile were left in a heap on the road. Mr. Stark gave his first attention to his little daughter, seeing that the other occupants were able to arise. He picked up the little girl in an unconscious condition and rushed to the nearest residence, the child partly regaining consciousness on the trip. Dr. J. A. McMurray was called to the scene and brought Mr. and Mrs. Stark and their daughter home in his automobile. The child was badly bruised, but no bones were broken.

Nearly all of the occupants of the auto were thrown out on their faces. Mr. Hinamon struck on the top of his head. Mr. Stark's face was bruised and scratched on the right side, but otherwise he was uninjured. Mrs. Stark was the most fortunate of the party, escaping with only a badly bruised elbow. Hr. Hinamon sustained a large cut on his head and his right leg was sprained to such an extent that he is compelled to use a cane to move about. Mrs. Hinamon was badly bruised and scratched about the face and had several of her teeth loosened.

A witness to the accident stated that after the explosion of the tire the machine left the ground completely before turning around.

As there was no sun at the time of the accident, the top of the machine was down. That none of the occupants were crushed beneath the auto is considered next to miraculous. The fenders and steering rod and wheel were badly bent, and the automobile was otherwise damaged to a small extent.

GRAPHIC STORY OF THE MISSISSIPPI FLOOD

Former Resident of Waldo Township Writes Letter.

BREAKING OF LEVEE AND LOSS OF LIVES

People Are Suffering in Great Swamp and at Various Points in the Flooded District—Many Families Lose All and Are Separated. Pitiful Scenes.

Relatives have received a letter from H. T. King, who until three years ago resided in Waldo township, and who is now making his home in Louisiana. Mr. King is one of the thousands of men who were driven from their homes with their families on account of the floods that swept the Mississippi valley. Mr. King lived near Baton Rouge and he and his family are now quartered in that city. In speaking of the flood he said:

"When the levee broke we were surrounded by water in a very short time and we barely escaped to high ground. I moved the family to Baton Rouge where we, with about 20,000 other sufferers, are now located. It costs us $20 a week to stay here and the slimmest kind of living. There are about 200 people in the Lafayette swamp who have no chance of escape and thousands of head of horses and cattle are drowned by the flood. The water is now fourteen feet deep where our home stood. When the levee broke at Torris it got us. When the break came the levee gave way for three-quarters of a mile and the water came in on us with a rush. We thought the end had come. A steamboat was passing in the river when the levee broke and it got caught in the draw and was a complete wreck, many of the passengers being drowned. It will be three months before we can do anything at our place and thousands are going to starve if help doesn't come. Those poor people who only saved a bundle, carried on their back, are in a pitable condition. We met one woman today who was well-to-do before the flood came. Her four children were gone and she said: 'God only knows where my little ones are, and I have nothing in the world today. Only what covers my body. No one can tell what thousands are suffering here now. I saved my wife and boy and about $100 which I had at home. But we feel fortunate that we got out with our lives as thousands of families have been separated and many were lost in the raging waters."

MRS. BURCKHARDT DIES IN CINCINNATI

Death Comes to a Sister of Mrs. Isabelle Norris.

Mrs. Isabelle Norris, of south Main street, received a telephone message, about 7 o'clock Monday morning; stating that her sister, Mrs. Sarah Burckhardt, had died at her home in Cincinnati, Sunday evening. Mrs. Norris and Miss Berenice Christian left on the ten-o'clock train Monday morning for that city to attend the funeral, which was held Tuesday.

Mrs. Burckhardt was a daughter of the late Thomas Prosser, of this city, and spent most of her early life in Marion. When about twenty years of age she was married to the late Leopold Burckhardt, and all of her married life was spent in Cincinnati. During these years she has frequently visited in Marion, and she has a large circle of friends here who will be grieved to learn of her death. She was a woman of noble character, and, although in poor health for some time, she never lost an opportunity to do something for those about her. She was about sixty-five years of age.

The deceased is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Blanche Shaw, of Indianapolis; a son, Harry Burckhardt, of Cincinnati; a stepson, Leopold Burckhardt, who resided with her, and two sisters, Mrs. Isabelle Norris, of this city, and Mrs. Ada Kelly, residing in Missouri. Her husband died a little more than a year ago, his death having been hastened by the death of his son, Prosser, who died in January, 1911. Mr. Burckhardt died just a month after his son's death.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS HOLD SESSIONS

Convention in Memorial Church at Caledonia.

Caledonia, O., May 20.[Special.]—The joint Sunday-school convention of Scott and Claridon townships was held at the Memorial M. E. church, Sunday afternoon and evening. The attendance at both sessions was excellent. W. H. Likins had charge of the music with which the sessions were opened.

Rev. Robert C. Edington conducted the devotions, at the afternoon session. Miss Sarah Myers, of Marion, spoke on "Sunday-school Pupils From Six to Ten." Mrs. J. A. Gourley had for her subject, "The Infant Class." Dr. M. B. Newhouse, of Marion, opened a discussion, "Is the State and County Organization Worth the Cost?". The discussion was taken up by J. A. Gourley, who presented new views on the subject. Rev. J. F. Keeran, of Kirkpatrick, spoke on "Teachers and Teaching."

The evening session was called to order by Charles Shumaker, chairman of the sessions. Rev. K. P. Meister conducted the devotions. A committee composed of Revs. J. R. Keeran, J. J. Adams and Robert C. Edgington framed resolutions which were read and adopted.

The officers elected are: Charles Shumaker, president; Lawrence Douce, vice president; Miss Arva Douce, secretary, and Miss Weltha Brown, treasurer. The following secretaries were appointed: Mrs. J. D. Harrison, teachers' training; Mrs. John Gruber, home secretary; Miss Hazel Neal, elementary secretary; Frank Harvey, missionary secretary and Mrs. George Ault, temperance secretary.

FORMER MARION GIRL MARRIED IN NEVADA

Miss Daisy E. Temple Weds Mr. Fred Austin Melindy.

A Fernley, Nevada, paper, makes the following reference to the marriage of a former Marion girl:

Wedding bells chimed happily, Wednesday evening, May 1, at the Seventh Day Adventist church, when were lined the destinies of Mr. Fred Austin Melindy, an enterprising young farmer of Fernley, and Miss Daisy Elizabeth Temple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Temple, of Marion, Ohio, and sister of George Temple, of Fallon.

As the sweet strains of the wedding march pealed forth the bridal party entered. Elder J. S. Harmon spoke of the enduring nature and beauty of the marriage relation, of its binding obligation and its perversion resulting in the evils of divorce, before pronouncing the words that made them one.

The bride was gowned in embroided net over white silk; orange blossoms from sunny California nestled in her veil and mingled with white carnations in her bouquet. Miss Flora Melindy, of Fernley, was maid of honor, and Miss Minnie West, of Los Angeles, was bridesmaid, while Lois Miller was flower girl.

The groom was attended by Mr. A. Wall, of Fernley, and Mr. Arthur Harmon acted as usher. The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius H. Miller, where appropriate reception solos, duets, dainty refreshments and games occupied the delightful hours. Many beautiful presents were received by the bride. A reception will be tendered the young people in their home at Fernley, the evening of May 5, on their return from a short wedding trip.

HEAVY PERSONAL PROPERTY RETURNS

Big Increase Is Shown in the Reports Made.

Judging from the first returns made by the assessors of personal property filed with County Auditor Jay Spaulding, Saturday and Monday the personal property duplicate will be almost doubled. This, to make the Smith one-per cent. law a success, is necessary, according to taxing officials.

Thirteen of the thirty-eight assessors had reported by noon Monday. Their pay stopped Monday.

Of the thirteen assessors' reports filed, that of Frank Purinton, in Fourth B, shows the biggest proportionate increases. Purinton returns personal property valued at $184,259. Last year the value of the personal property returned for this precinct was $95,429.

Assessor John Vestal, of Third A, returned a valuation of $236,740. Last year Assesor Vestal returned personal property valued at $158,225. One taxpayer in Third A returned personal property valued at $40,000 this year.

The auditor is very well pleased, so far, with the returns made. He states that he will soon have them all compiled, when he will give out the total figures.

THE GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATE MANY

Four candidates for the gubernatorial nomination in the two leading political parties have doffed their chapeaux into the circle and the next week or two will see some active efforts made in their behalf. For the Republican nomination, Lawrence Langdon, of Warren county, and D. P. Anderson, of Youngstown, are formally entered. Both are lawyers Langdon has been prosecuting attorney of his county and a leader in the last two general assemblies. Anderson is a very active member of the present constitutional convention Both are men with some strong qualifications. There are others, however, whose political ships are in the offing. There is the strong and aggressive J. W. Haithill, of Lima, Congressmen Husband and Willis, while there is a possibility that A. L. Garford, the Lorain automobile manufacturer, may unblanket the ambition he has long had in training. Other men may enter the field if, as expected, the making of a state ticket is postponed until after the national convention.

In the Democratic camp Jimmy Cox, the Dayton editor and congressman, is the leading candidate Jimmy is a hustler, a past-master in the art of political manipulation, and while he is not regarded as a strong friend of Governor Harmon, he has given that rather sensitive and dictatorial old gentleman no ground for complaint against him Congressman Sharpe, of the Fourteenth district, is the other candidate He has a record as a sprinter. It is possible that there will be other entries also in this race, but it is most probable that the winner will be picked from these two.

There were precincts in Marion county where less than one-fifth of the Republicans attended Tuesday's primary, and most of these were the dissatisfied or disgruntled. Yet the expressed preference of these few goes to make up the expressed preference of the Republicans of Ohio The rule of the people sounds well, but the people do not work at it very faithfully.

Marion county gave a satisfactory majority of its Republican votes to President Taft, yet two of the seven delegates to the state convention are against him This will explain one intent of the call for elective state delegates from primary districts. If it proved impossible to elect for T. R. there would be a chance to divide the president's support surfeited with prosperity, and irritated by too swift a progress It is possible that in maintaining conditions that have made possible an incomparable industrial development, we have been irritated by greed, envy, and unavoidable inequalities This conviction is strengthened by the attitude of the majority of farmers, who, rejoicing in unheard-of prices for their products, join the very unrest that their high prices have incited. It looks like the remedy lies in demoralized industry and prostrated prosperity, with fewer men at the lathe and loom, and mill and furnace and forge, and more men tilling our fertile soil. There is a crisis at hand. It is not limited to the Republican party Let us hope for a helpful Republican contribution to its settlement, and trust that there will be a dependable and understanding public sentiment expressed in the ultimate decision of the American people.

There is evidence that an effort is making to inject into our politics again the narrow, nasty spirit of sectarian religious prejudice. It should be stamped out.

THE BEAUTIES OF THE PRIMARY SYSTEM

We are told that the only way the people can express their preference in political matters is through the primary system. Let's see how the people expressed their preference, Tuesday, here in Marion county.

The preferential ballot gave Harmon a vote of 1,107 to 537 for Wilson, almost a two-to-one proposition in favor of Ohio's governor. Nothing could be plainer than that. Sure not! Fourteen out of every twenty-two voters favored Harmon.

But there's another end to it Harmon had two candidates for national delegates One was Reis and the other, Pontius Reis received a vote of 529 and Pontius got a vote of 591 But Governor Wilson also had a couple of candidates One was F Foreman and the other was W H Reinhart Foreman received 1,077 votes and Reinhart, 781. In other words, Wilson's delegates received from two to five hundred votes more than were given the delegates of Harmon, the preference of the preferential vote

But this is not all. There was an independent candidate on the ticket, our own Lewis H Flocken Mr Flocken ran as an independent, but was not adverse to Harmon And what did he receive? A straggling vote" Not on your life He was second on the ticket with 936 votes

Now, to get right down to business, what did this particular primary show? Did it show a preference for Harmon, a preference for Wilson, or did it show indifference to both?

The primary is almost daily being demonstrated to be a huge political job.

In the states which have had presidential preference primaries over 1,000,000 Republicans have failed to vote. What will those voters do on election day?

fellow-patriots puts a bullet into his head. It would be interesting to know what enterprising American capitalist financed Orozco's effort. Certainly it is by this time pretty well understood that the campaign for the deposition of Diaz and the elevation of Madero was really but the result of the desire of one crowd of "Gringo" money-kings to share the treasures of Mexico with their brothers who had climbed to the favor of Diaz And the Orozco movement was similarly inspired Of course there is always the semi-savage lust for loot and brigandage, dislike for humdrum labor and hatred for the restraints of authority to bring peons to the support of any standard raised in revolt against those in power.

Some of the papers have been making merry over the suggestion of George Ade for governor of Indiana. Mr Ade has denied any such ambition, but we see no reason for treating the suggestion as a joke. It is true that Mr Ade has a reputation as a humorist but he is not a clown. He is a college man, a keen student and observer of men and affairs, a successful business man and a man of good character He would make Indiana a good governor, even if he is not a lawyer. But his valuable sense of humor probably protects him from taking political ambitions or maneuvers too seriously

ABOUT PEOPLE.

John Rey, of Manchester, New Hampshire, is grandfather to more grandchildren, it is believed, than any other man in New England Mr. Rey is the father of nine children, all of whom are living, and his grandchildren number seventy. He is seventy-three years old

When Lafcadio Hearn married his Japanese wife, all of his wife's family accompanied him to his new quarters He mentions that he had nine lives dependent on him—wife, wife's mother, wife's father, wife's adopted mother, wife's father's father, then servants and a Buddhist student

President Lowell's new $55,000 house, which is going up in the Harvard yard, next to the philosophy building, is his own home and built with his own money It is on land owned by the college, however, and an interesting agreement is being drawn by which it becomes, at his death the property of the university Boston Journal.

John Shell 105 years old and the oldest white man in Kentucky, recently rode from his home at Laurel Fork to Barbourville and back on a mule, a total distance of thirty-eight miles He has never seen a large city, and was a railroad train and electric lights for the first time nine years ago His oldest son is eighty-one and his youngest fifty-seven. In all, he had eleven children.

The Salutitorian.

Miss Weltha Brown as salutitorian chose for her subject "Equal Franchise" and the following a brief synopsis of her oration.

"It is a part of practical wisdom, that we adopt ourselves to the times in which we live. If we do not, we will find ourselves standing alone while other states are pressing forward and winning the battles of life. Why should Ohio do less for her women than some of the western states that have already accepted the progressive movement? For more than sixty years, the mothers, wives and daughters of Ohio have been knocking at the door of equal rights, and asking only for simple justice. It is no longer a dream, but a progressive fact as shown by the several states that have broken the shackles of slavery and granted to women equal rights with men. The men of Ohio have been generous enough to make the women equal with them in holding property and paying taxes, yet they have denied them the right to have a voice in that government Our forefathers, under the slogan "Rebellion Against Tyrants Is Obedience to God," gave the men their independence and left women as slaves. Is not 136 years long enough to earn freedom.

Miss Adela Martin.

Miss Adela Martin interested the audience with a review of the life of Charles Dickens. The great English author was born near London, February 7, 1812 He received his early education at a preparatory school and later attended school in Rochester. He left school at the age of fifteen and obtained employment with a solicitor, spending his earnings in the study of stenography. He afterward secured a position as reporter, where his unusual skill rapidly advanced him from the house of commons to the higher rank of journalism. He knew what imprisonment for debt signified David Copperfield was his masterpiece

No other novelist was more original. He was a natural born actor and a man of pleasing manners He lived an active, useful life, and left memorials which shall live as long as the English language endures.

Wayne S. Dilts.

Wayne S Dilts followed with an oration on "The Quest of Happiness," which was well received.

The speaker said The quests of life are many and varied Among them are the quests of gold, of love, of truth and usefulness, but above all is the quest of goodness and of God To each of these high pursuits, there is always joined the quests of happiness

The universality of the quest of happiness, and the fact that this instinct is so deeply imbedded in man's nature, the inner glow that accompanies all right conduct and the restlessness which follows all wrong doing are the proofs that the soul is made for joy and good cheer God has ordained that every act of obedience to His law tenders strength and resonance to those chords that vibrate joy. Life is a school in which labor, sorrow, victory and defeat are teachers but happiness is the graduating point If righteousness is the supreme end and aim of life, happiness is the reward."

Melvin Pommert.

Melvin Pommert took for the title of his selection "Step by Step."

Mr. Pommert, said "Life is a great building Each act completed is a stone laid Each stone firmly laid is a step towards the goal Greatness is not obtained by a single bound, but by a steady climb. Step by Step, from childhood to maturity, we climb the mountain, the summit of which is the goal of our success. If each lesson were well learned in childhood and youth, there would be fewer failures and wrecks along life's pathway But the journey is long and the progress slow and many grow discouraged and fall by the way. Life, with definite and noble purpose, is a port living but without a purpose, is as a ship without a rudder. The question that continually confronts us is how to best reach our ideal. The goal is reached by self-reliance and determined perseverance. Our opportunities are so much greater than those that our forefathers enjoyed and the approach so much less rugged that we should move onward and upward step by step."

Miss Mary McCabe.

Miss Mary McCabe, in a very pleasing manner, delivered an oration on "The Parting of the Ways" Her sentiments are revealed in he following words:

"For weeks past, the rushing course of old Father Time his been only too noticeable. Faithfully realistic facts draw closer and force themselves upon our minds, even in the midst of happiest surroundings. A severing of friends and associations most near and dear, and a breaking away from a regular round of duties only to embrace others, perhaps less laborious, yet, all untried and perhaps less congenial. Thus, we find our school life, freighted with its own peculiar joys and sorrows, its rests and labors, has passed away forever, leaving us ready to enter upon a new era, to view life under new aspects We have come at last, to the parting of the ways, passing from school life to life's school. So far our work has been theory only. Now it becomes reality."

Lloyd Kinnamon.

Lloyd Kinnamon chose for his subject, "The Dawn of Peace." His essay contained the following ideas.

"The development of the doctrine of international arbitration, considered from the standpoint of its ultimate benefits to the human race, is one of the most vital movements of modern times. In its relation to the well being of men and women of this and the ensuing generations, it far exceeds in importance, the proper solution of various economic problems of this age, which are constant themes of legislative discussion. The idea of world peace is engaging the attention of the most enlightened minds of the civilized world The progress already made is a distinct step in the direction of a higher civilization. It gives hope in the near [illegible] of the end of war and its burdens upon the working population.

The rule of conduct which governs men in their relation to each other, is being applied to nations. The battlefields, as a place of settlement of disputes is gradually yielding to arbitral courts of justice. Religious wars are specters of the past and the Christian church is valiantly laboring to fulfill its mission of "Peace on Earth."

The Valedictory.

A musical number was followed by the valedictory by Louis C. Seckel, who spoke on "Perseverance"

The speaker said "Do we know what true perseverance means? It can be defined in a few words Perseverance means the continual working toward a fixed aim, through all discouragement and defeats. It has been said that 'constant dropping wears away stone' so continual persevering labor gains our objects To what virtue can we attribute the success of Columbus, who, by years of hard labor, finally succeeded in obtaining aid from Queen Isabella of Spain to fit out his small fleet to search for a western route to the Indies? Why was it he did not turn back, when threatened to be thrown over board? It was because of his strong will to finish what he had begun Defeat only gave him power, difficulties taught him the necessity of redoubled exertions; danger gave him courage and he was inspired by the thought of doing something great Who will not befriend the wide-awake energetic youth? He, who persists in the face of hardships and discouragement and does not idle away his time and top at every little defeat, will always find ready and generous friends to help him in every time of need."

Appreciation Expressed.

A vote of thanks was accorded the members of the board of education for their best endeavors to provide the advantage of a good education to the pupils of instructors and to the parents and friends for their appreciation and interest.

Superintendent R. B. Bell made the presentation of diplomas which was accompanied by well-chosen words of encouragement and best wishes At the close of his brief remarks, he introduced Rev. P J Currin, of Marion who made the class address He advised placing the aim high as the ideal is never reached and the higher the aim the more opportunities grasped.

Patience is the most needed attribute essential to a successful life It took thousands of years to prepare the continent which we live Columbus gave us what he did by his extreme patience and spirit The greatest call of the day is to be practical

The address throughout, was full of good advice.

THE SIXTH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT HELD

Three Students Are Graduated at Morral.

ORATIONS ARE GIVEN BY THE GRADUATES

Dr. Henry A. Hartman of This City Delivers the Class Address and Rev. M. D. Scott Presents the Diplomas—Abstracts from the Orations of the Evening.

Morral, O., May 15.—[Special.]—The sixth annual commencement of the Morral high school took place in the Baptist church, Friday evening. There were three graduates, one young woman and two young men. Each delivered orations. A large crowd greeted them.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated with the high school colors, red and black, with the class colors, purple and old gold, intermingling. The rostrum was made very attractive with high school and class pennants, potted plants, together with the class flower, pink tea roses, and various other flowers, also the class motto, "Onward and Upward." The music was furnished by the Fairy orchestra, of Upper Sandusky. The class address was delivered by Dr. Henry A Hartman, superintendent of the Marion schools. His subject, "Visions," was entertaining, interesting and instructive throughout.

Promptly at 7 30 o'clock, Mrs. J. H. Bagwill played a march as Dr. Hartman and the graduates took their places on the platform. W. R. Heistand, superintendent of the schools, was unable to be present on account of illness, having been taken suddenly ill at school, Friday.

The orchestra played a march, "National Emblems," by Bagley.

Rev. J. H. Bagwill led in prayer, after which the orchestra played a selection.

Jeremiah S. Miner.

Jeremiah S. Miner then delivered his oration on "Dollar Diplomacy." In well chosen words he proved that he had taken much time and thought with his subject.

The speaker said, "What can be a better wish of any nation than that peace, justice and prosperity shall reign supreme everywhere? The new method adopted by our government for propagating this so-called benevolent principle among nations is fittingly called 'Dollar Diplomacy' It is using the power and prestige of the national government to induce unwilling nations to borrow money and buy goods from the same men, whose wealth and power is a menace to the United States. If Uncle Sam is to continue his companionship with the money-mad corporations, we, as a deserving people have a perfect right to ask, 'Why?'

"When we consider how this treachery in the national affairs effect men of less means and interests, we must conclude that this is a universal problem. Let us labor for a man at the helm who will not be afraid to reject any and all affairs of the Morgan company."

Ola N. Landon.

After another selection by the orchestra, an oration, "Immigration," was delivered by Ola N. Landon. He proved himself an orator and his delivery was exceptionally good In his discourse he said:

"Of all the problems discussed by the American, the immigration problem is one that shall never cease to be a momentous question. Year after year we find that the immigrants are increasing in numbers, to acquire wealth and position. Some have an honest motive for their coming, and that with proper directions, can be a benefit to the American people

"Unlike other countries the United States makes no effort to induce immigration. Sometimes the immigrant's only purpose is to take advantage temporarily of the wages paid for labor in this country and he by real economy saves a sum each year that is to his credit Some think that he has no right to send the money home, but he has the same right that the American tourist has in spending large sums in foreign countries. The money sent home by the immigrant sooner or later is sent back throught the channel of commercial trade. This is the time to bring into action the best there is in American Ideals, for as we present ourselves to this mass of men, so it will become."

Gladys I. Hartman.

Gladys I. Hartman chose for the subject of her oration "Woman Suffrage," and delivered it in a most charming manner. Less than forty years ago the movement for woman suffrage began to assume serious proportions. The men and women who advocated this cause, had to encounter prejudices, which had existed since the foundation of the earth. The relation of woman to man, was of inferiority and incapable to act for herself in the important transactions of life, but in the present age of progress, conditions are different Womanhood is now recognized to be worthy of enjoying all privileges which makes for the most in our country.

"Woman should be allowed to vote, because they have a right to suffrage They pay taxes, and why should they not be allowed to vote? In the colonies only tax payers were voters. The United States constitution says: 'The citizens right to vote shall not be denied or abridged on account of race, color or previous conditions of servitude.'"

After a selection by the orchestra, Dr. Henry A. Hartman gave the class address.

The orchestra furnished another selection and Rev. M. D. Scott presented the diplomas The program was closed with a march by the orchestra.

JOHN E. KEENER IS TAKEN TO COLUMBUS

Deputy Sheriff Spencer Comes After the Prisoner.

UNDER INDICTMENT IN FRANKLIN COUNTY

Pinkertons Say Keener Is a Fugitive from Justice in Pennsylvania and Is Wanted at Other Places. Is a Model Prisoner While in the Local Jail.

Deputy Sheriff Spencer, of Columbus, who was notified of the failure of the May grand jury to indict John E Keener, alleged brains of a syndicate of bank forgers in the Central West, arrived here from Columbus, Tuesday morning, and returned to Columbus with Keener, recently indicted by the Franklin county grand jury.

Keener, who was held here on a charge of obtaining $300 from the Marion County Banking company by false pretense, when informed that the Columbus officer was here for him whistled and then smiled. He held his tongue, however.

That Keener was a fugitive from justice in Pennsylvania at the time he is alleged by the Pinkertons to have committed a series of forgeries in Ohio, is disclosed in a letter received by Prosecuting Attorney Charles L Justice.

Keener, according to the letter, received from Attorney Hale Hill, was indicted in Pittsburgh for obtaining money by false pretense and was released on $2,000 bond. That was last August. His trial was set for the following September, but Keener could not be located and was declared to be a fugitive from justice

The letter asked Prosecutor Justice to notify the writer of the action taken by the Marion county grand jury with reference to Keener. This Mr Justice did, Monday night. He also informed him that a warrant was here from Franklin county, where Keener had been indicted, and that Keener was under indictment in Richland county for the same offense.

While confined in the county jail here, Sheriff John G. Stark states that Keener was a model prisoner Because of his gentlemanly conduct, he won the respect of fellow prisoners His wife, who lives in Chicago, visited him a number of times.

Some of the Italian laborers of the Erie in the local Erie yards claim to have found the man who shot Bianchi Skifield, Sunday evening. They called at the Marion City hospital, Monday evening, and saw the injured man, who, it is understood, will bring no action against the guilty party. Whether there was trouble among the foreigners or the shooting was accidental is not fully divulged, but there is reason to believe that the shooting was the result of some trouble among the men such as has prevailed among them for some time.

NOTED PRIEST TALKS OF THE SOCIAL UNREST

FATHER BERNARD VAUGHAN

Run the scale of the world's follies, its sins and misfortunes, and you will find them all springing from the same source—a condition that prevails throughout every land and for which there is no artificial cure.

This condition is what Father Bernard J. Vaughan, the noted priest, whose utterances from the platform and through the press have sent society from the preening of its plumage to a painful picking of its pinfeathers, calls an apostrophe from God.

It is this falling away from Godlike things that has given rise to the evils of divorce and other forms of domestic woe. It is responsible, he says, for the social unrest which is threatening time honored institutions.

ICE FLOES GIVE NAVIGATORS HARD PROBLEM

THE HARMONY HELPLESS IN THE ICE.

Since the sinking of the "unsinkable" Titanic ice has been everywhere. Now comes a "wee bit boat" of 220 tons, an ocean bantam "champ," with reports that the bergs this year have exceeded all bounds.

The Titanic disaster has brought home to every one the extent of the ice floes which swing down into the Atlantic from Greenland and Hudson Bay waters. The view shows the Harmony, of the Moravian Mission, working off Labrador. The vessel is believed to be the smallest steamer in regular trade across the Atlantic; she is only 220 tons register. She leaves London every June for Labrador, and after making two trips between Labrador and St. John's, Newfoundland, returns to London in December. The little vessel is here seen in the middle of an ice pack off the Labrador coast, just to the north of the entrance to the St. Lawrence River.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR PROPER OBSERVANCE

Committee Selects Chief of Staff and Others.

The Veterans Urge the People To Contribute Flowers for Decoration of the Graves of Those Who Have Passed Away—Some Plans.

A committee of Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., met at the office of the White Sulphur Stone company, Monday evening, and made arrangements for the observance of memorial day. As this will be the fiftieth anniversary of the civil war, the veterans are planning to make it a great day in Marion and they ask all the citizens to cooperate with them in the proper celebration of this golden anniversary of the beginning of one of greatest wars in history. They also ask the people of the city and country for a liberal gift of flowers with which to decorate the graves of their departed comrades, and for modest contributions from the business men to meet the expenses.

The observance of the anniversary will begin in the morning with a band concert. In the afternoon, the usual Decoration day parade with a large escort, the old soldiers and the Spanish American war veterans will go to the beautiful Marion cemetery to pay tribute to their dead.

At the meeting Monday evening, the following appointments were made.

Major James Wilson McMurray, chief of staff, Captain Daniel Evans, M L. Dumble, O. S. Rapp, J. E Phillips, Fred Morrison, Philip J Haberman, J E. Messenger, D. O. Weeks, J. W. Klinefelter, J. D. Schultz and R. M Miller, aids-de-camp, and E. R. Bondley, trumpeter.

These men are expected to report mounted to the grand marshal at 1 p. m. to head the parade. Rev. Walter A. King, of the Trinity Baptist church, will deliver the address at the cemetery.

MRS. J. W. KENNEDY IS GIVEN A SURPRISE

Company of Relatives Enjoys Pleasant Day.

When Mrs. J. W. Kennedy, residing west of Marion, returned home from church, Sunday, she was agreeably surprised to find her children and grandchildren waiting to greet her and remind her of the fiftieth anniversary of her birth, which she celebrated Saturday.

A fine dinner was prepared by her daughters and was served at the table which was prettily decorated with a crystal basket filled with violets, a gift from the grandchildren. Those seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs C. W. Pangborn and daughters, Lola and Grace, and sons, Kenneth, Dale and Floyd; Mr. and Mrs Hayse Holland and daughters, Mildred and Freda; Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Kennedy and daughter, Glenndora Grace, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Baldinger

Mrs Kennedy was presented a number of gifts, after which the day was spent very pleasantly.

Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff, of New York, has headed the list of contributions to build a lighthouse commemorative of the Titanic victims, giving $500.

THE MAY GRAND JURY SPRINGS BIG SURPRISE

Three Sub Rosa Indictments Are Returned Monday.

HEDGES AND KEENER ARE NOT INDICTED

Hedges Is Charged with Killing Morton E. Drake and Keener Is Charged with Obtaining Money by False Pretense—A Report as to Conditions at Jail.

The May grand jury sprung a big surprise, Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, when it reported as stated in Monday's Star, three sub rosa indictments and ignored seven cases, among which were Harry Hedges, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Morton E. Drake, April 30, and John E. Keener, charged with obtaining $150 by false pretense from the Marion County Banking company.

The grand jurors had been in session six days and examined seventy-two witnesses, forty of whom were quizzed in connection with the Palm Cafe affair.

Two of the cases ignored came up during the last few days of the grand jury session as rumors and were thoroughly investigated, but did not warrant the returning of indictments and no record was made of them.

Every possible clew in the Hedges affair was run to earth, and absolutely no definite information could be obtained, according to the statement made by the authorities

The evidence against Keener in the mayor's court showed that the Marion County Banking company had paid Keener the money after it had telegraphed a New York bank concerning it. The same testimony was presented to the grand jury.

Monday night, Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice telegraphed the Franklin county prosecuting attorney that Keener would be held here on a warrant from that place for his arrest. Keener is under indictment in Columbus for obtaining money by false pretense.

Following is a partial report submitted to the court by the grand jury:

Grand Jury Report.

"We, the grand jury of the May term of common pleas court, upon visiting the jail of said county, do find that the jail proper is in and is kept by the jailer in splendid condition. The food, judging by the statements made by all prisoners, is first class.

"All conditions are in first-class shape, except the sanitary plumbing, all of which is in a miserable and very unsanitary condition, so much so that we deem it necessary that the county commissioners attend to it at once.

"Harry C. Krause, foreman."

Of the three sub rosa indictments returned, it is stated that the parties concerned were not under arrest at the time the jury reported, hence the secrecy.

The cases, in addition to those of Hedges, Keener and those which were investigated without records having been made, are:

James Allen, who was arrested on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Jesse McWherter; Edward Mortel, who was charged with stealing articles valued at six dollars from F. C. Lutz, and Guy Thompson, a Caledonia saloonkeeper, who was held to the grand jury under $200 bond for alleged violation of the Sunday-closing law on complaint of Mrs. Ida Timson, whose father, George Henry, is also a Caledonia saloonkeeper.

The grand jurors were:

George Benzler, Wilborn Tedrow, M. O. Watkins, Lewis Hummer, Marshall Markey, A. G. Moss, Felix Kiger, Julius Butz, M. C. Chipps, H. C Krause, H. W. Shrock, Joel T. Shaw, Thomas Oscar Sharpless, Peter Sells, and Joseph E. Crow. They went into session last Monday and received two dollars a day for six days' service.

TEN ARE GRADUATED FROM LARUE SCHOOLS

A Fine Program Is Given in the Opera-House

ORATIONS ARE GIVEN BY THE GRADUATES

Timely Topics Are Discussed by the Members of the Class Who Are Heard by Parents and Friends with a Great Deal of Interest Diplomas Presented

LaRue O May [Special]— The annual commencement of the LaRue High school was held in the opera house last evening the auditorium being covered to attract The stage was decorated to represent a park with electric and floor plants and the walls and ceiling were suspended above stage was the motto Our school life our preparation for life our work our royal purple and gold were also in evidence

As Neal orchestra of Marion played The Great Divide the invocation was by Superintendent K Duffield and Principals J W Armstrong and Ralph Kemper and Rev M C Wisely took their places on the stage

The first number was an oration Golden Days by Miss Daisy Margaret Dickason Miss Dickason has a very pleasant delivery and her oration was well prepared She said Days as fair here as the mist fades slowly into golden day which flood the world in dazzling brightness and twilights mystery is so sweet just because it ends in fairy night which makes only too true that nothing resting on its own completeness can have worth or beauty Each day is a foundation for the next and if we want our lives to be so must we live

After another selection by the orchestra Howard L Cleveland gave an oration The Stream of Life His oration was fine and was well delivered The length of life depends not so much on its duration but upon our ability of reaching out in the line of activity thought and self development said the speaker The depth of our life depends upon the soul itself and like a stream if we have endeavored to widen our channels without deepening them they will all [illegible] Our lives must flow to the worldly end like the stream to the ocean bearing burdens as the stream its sediment

The Class History

Following a selection Daisy Beem by the orchestra the class history was given by Miss Willa F Fields This was original and was one of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening

In the archives of the LaRue public schools is found a book containing the names of those pupils who began their school life in September 1899 said Miss Fields she then told what each had accomplished in the years that followed and closed by saying Our school life has been happy and now having completed the course marked out for us we must solve for ourselves the problems of life as they come to us Each school life unto itself is complete

The Fountain of Happiness was given by Miss Anna Louise Hitchens This number was very good and showed that she had given careful preparation She said To Live are calling you One from the world of joy and the other from the world of duty The voice of duty calls you One from the lowlands where forebodings and might makes right the other from the hills where justice and truth and love rules The path of duty leads to the right and the other to the left where hatred and evil dwell and every man makes or his own fate Each must choose for himself

THE gasoline engine that has revolutionized the sport of yachting and brought to the fore large numbers of motorboatists has played an equally important part in maritime commerce and has been responsible for the development of the working motorboat to just as high a standard as the boat built expressly for pleasure.

As the steam yacht and the steam merchant craft differ so does the pleasure motor boat and its business brother, or sister, but the noteworthy part is that during the past few years liquid fuel engines have been installed in craft of every description, bringing about a change that might aptly be termed a new epoch.

The internal combustion engine, as the gasoline engine is rightly termed, is not altogether new either in theory or practice, but up to about 10 years ago it was in such a state of experimental development that not only was its cost prohibitive but its lack of reliability was too great to be given consideration by anyone who might have wanted to depend upon it.

To yachtsmen belong the credit of developing the gasoline engine to its present state of perfection and it can be truly said that of the thousands of engines turned out by scores of different manufacturers there are few that fail to give general satisfaction and they perform their duty under most adverse circumstances.

Indeed, once looked upon with distrust, the liquid fuel engine is now regarded as thoroughly reliable and efficient. The United States Government has adopted the engines for life-saving boats, there are many of them in use in the Lighthouse Department, in the Coast Survey and at the various water front fortifications in the department of the engineers. Even the Navy Department, once so set against them on account of the dangerous qualities of gasoline, has adopted them and when Admiral Evans was in command of the "Around-the-world" squadron he had a motorboat.

So great has been the general satisfaction with the performance of the engines of the gasoline type that the German naval authorities have been carrying on war manoeuvers with them while a fleet of gasoline torpedo boats have been built.

While in the phases mentioned the gasoline engine is playing an important part it is in commerce that it has wrought wonders. There is scarcely a body of water in the United States where there cannot be found a motorboat of some kind used as a producer of revenue. It might be but a ferry and, if it is, the chances are that it has supplanted what was formerly a craft propelled by men or steam power.

Along the larger rivers of the country, the Great Lakes, the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts and the hundreds of bays and gulfs, the business craft are to be found engaged in various occupations—general freighting, passenger carrying, oystering, fishing, etc.—while in the harbors there are gasoline tugs, boarding-house runners, oil supply boats, police patrol boats, water boats, bum boats and even boats for the missionaries. Few indeed are those who have business afloat, from the shipbuilder to the sailmaker and chandler, who do not either own or charter power-boats in which to seek trade and deliver orders.

The gasoline boats have proven sharp competitors of the inland steamers. Time was when the farmer, even though he was on tide water, had to haul his produce miles to the nearest steamboat landing in order to get it to the market. Now the prosperous farmers own their own gasoline boats, load them at their own wharves in the creeks, and rush their stuff off regardless of the steamboat people or anyone else.

Time was, too, when the deep-sea fisherman depended entirely upon the wind to take his laden schooner to port. The competition was keen and it led to the building of swift sailing vessels, especially by the Grand Banks fishermen. When there was wind there was always a race homeward and there will ever go down in history the songs and stories of the daring of those Gloucester men who drove their craft through gales of wind and heavy seas to the home port.

But what happened when there was no wind? Why the whole fleet was helpless and their fish spoiled while they waited. Gone are the days of waiting. The gasoline engine has made it possible for the fishermen to come and go in wind and calm, and the latter has ever been dreaded more than the former.

Then there is the beach fisherman—the hardy man who lives at the edge of the sea and who operates pound nets far off shore. Not so long ago it was necessary to row long, heavy boats miles and miles in gathering the fish and bringing them in. Half a dozen men were required at the oars and they usually finished the day's work worn out. Now a five or six-horsepower motor does the work of the rowers, does it tirelessly and at a great saving.

And this is true of the oysterman who formerly spent hours rowing his boat to and from the oyster grounds, leaving home in the darkness of the morning and getting back in the dark of the evening. Now a small engine does the propelling, making it possible to save at least four hours of the day, to say nothing of the saving of the oysterman's strength for the work of tonging. It might also be said that on the oyster dredging boats small gasoline engines are used to operate the dredge winders thus saving in man power and cost of operation. Some of the oyster boats are so equipped that the engines that propell them are also utilized for the operation of the dredge winders.

While the gasoline engine has come in competition with steam propelled craft to a great degree it is nothing as compared with the inroads it has made on the sailing merchant craft, and the indications are that within a very few years the small schooners will be as scarce as is the square-rigger in the inter-ocean trade.

The reason for this is readily understood. The sailing craft is always at a disadvantage in summer when the winds are light and frequently adverse. Then, too; sailing craft cannot well be navigated in narrow streams even though the water is deep. An adverse tide of even a mile an hour and a light head wind will render the sailing vessel helpless while these conditions can be utterly disregarded by the power barge.

Another advantage that the barge enjoys is that, tonnage for tonnage, it will carry more than the sailing craft, especially in regard to a deck load. The sailing craft has to be loaded so as to allow for listing when under way. The barge is always on an even keel. This makes a great difference in the carrying of such freight as cord wood and baskets of peaches, tomatoes, etc.

While the cost of operating a power barge is more, owing to the cost of fuel, yet the rapidity with which trips can be made more than offsets this feature when the year's business is summed up.

The completion of the proposed inland waterway from Boston to Beaufort, N. C., will open a greater field for the working motorboat which will then come into even greater competition with steam craft in the towing of barges laden with lumber and merchandise.

The gasoline engine used by commercial craft differs somewhat from the engine of the pleasure craft inasmuch as it is built much more heavy and does not give as many revolutions. Technically, this type of engine is known as the "heavy duty" and, as its name implies, it is intended for hard work that would soon wear out the light machine; besides, the gasoline consumption of the lighter engine is much greater.

In the construction of gasoline engines, both in the light and heavy machines, the United States manufacturers are being looked upon as the most expert in the world and Consuls, in their reports, often refer to the products as being superior to those of Germany, France and England.

The Japanese have discovered a process by which they are able to manufacture isinglass from six varieties of seaweed.

HOW PEARL BUTTONS are MADE

IT fills one with amazement to study the art of mankind, and see what an enormous variety of things of every description have been fashioned by the hand of savage and civilized man! What a great variety and multitude of tools he has made to aid him, in his various arts and sciences! Is there any substance known to him that his genius and inventive skill have not found some use for?

How many of the useful everyday things of life we handle daily, and as they serve our purpose we give no further thought to them. Have we ever stopped to admire even the beautiful, iridescent, pink, greenish and pearly colors on the handle of our little pocket knife, much less imagined how such a beautiful part of one of the gems of the ocean ever got there, for those who love "pretty things?"

Of the great variety of salt and fresh water shells, suitable for the manufacture of many useful as well as beautiful articles, only two large groups of shell-fish are sought, and these are the Pearl-oyster and Pearl-mussel species, which produce that much-prized material known as "mother-of-pearl," and also, those gems of the ocean—orient pearls. Some species of these shells are small, and as their "nacre" or mother-of-pearl substance is thin, they are of little value to the manufacturer of pearl ornaments, buttons, etc. The Ceylon Pearl-oyster is of this small variety and is eagerly hunted for on account of the pearls which are somewhat plentiful and sometimes of the very finest quality. You have all heard of the Ceylon Pearl Divers of that spicy isle who derive a livelihood from their dangerous but wonderful occupation of diving for pearls. Those expert swimmers and divers go down in the beautifully clear waters of the Indian Ocean to a depth of from six to twenty fathoms in quest of those beautiful gems of pearl, which we have all admired so much as they graced the necklace of some person who was fortunate enough to possess such an attraction.

If it is true, as so often stated, that "small packages contain valuable prizes," the application is well suited in the case of these valuable shells seeing the small ones contain the rarest and most beautiful ocean gems, while the much larger members of the Pearl-oyster family supply far more of the mother-of-pearl substance, so useful in the manufacture of a variety of things.

The largest and finest of these Pearl-oyster shells are found in the tropical waters of the Australian seas, where they are dived for and brought to the surface by the human hand, while in more shallow places they may be secured with various hook lines or tongs made for the purpose. Their pursuit has been so extensive in the past, however, that very few of the large and valuable specimens remain within easy reach. A single pair of these bivalves when full grown may weigh from twelve to eighteen pounds or more, and will in these days be found only in waters of almost inaccessible deepness. The great natural beds or banks of the Pearl-oyster and Pearl-mussel shells are much like those of our much-sought-for oyster, but are now far less accessible in the places where man's tireless industry has been for so long working overtime.

After cleansing and when properly prepared for shipment, quantities of these shell-treasures are sent to Germany, where the most extensive work of manufacturing articles from them is carried on, while some are sent to France from a few of her possessions in tropical seas, to be made into articles of ornament, or sent into Germany in the rough state, to supply the German trade with raw material.

On reaching their destination in Germany, these shells undergo several preliminary operations, such as re-washing, scouring and soaking in chemicals, before they are ready for use in the manufacture of buttons, or other useful articles. These beautiful shells of the Pearl-oyster are perfectly suited to the manufacture of various useful articles for the following reasons, viz: They supply an abundance of the mother-of-pearl substance which is very thick, and not brittle enough to split up in the process of cutting, and their beautiful coloring is not only very rich, but permanent.

One of the illustrations showing an opened view of a Pearl-oyster taken from the Indian Ocean is marked out with ink lines as a guide for its cutting. This gives an idea of the value of this material, and the skilled economy which is practiced in using every bit of the shell surface possible for manufacture. The two halves of this shell measure about thirteen inches across, horizontally, and are of an exquisite, pearly pink coloring on the inner surfaces where the ink lining is seen. From this diagram you will see what articles are to be cut from the sides of this specimen. The various circles represent markings for buttons of different sizes, while the largest circle on the right half of the shell, near its hinge, is for one end of an opera glass case. Just below this circle, you will see markings for a whistle, parasol and table knife handle respectively. At the top of this same part there are markings for a razor and fan handle. The triangles are for inlays in jewelry, and the large squares lower down are for decorations for musical instruments. From the narrow divisions near the hinge are to be cut a pen holder and paper cutter, while pocket knife handles are outlined near by, just above the outline for a fine pistol handle of "pearl." It will be noticed that the outside rough surfaces of the shell encroach upon some of these designs near the bottom, but the depth of these parts allows all these irregularities to be cut away for the finishing of the perfected article.

Another illustration shows some cloak and vest buttons and shirt studs of mother-of-pearl, placed back in the holes in the mother-of-pearl shell terior surfaces are of a glistening white, which permeates through to the outer skin of the shell.

This shell possesses the peculiar characteristics required for the manufacture of buttons, as it is sufficiently thick, substantial, and of a general uniform coloring throughout the various strata of which it is composed. It is not a large shell, being only from four and one-half to five inches across its greatest diameter. It is found over very extensive areas, and hundreds of fishermen spend their time in taking these shells with tongs, rakes, hooked lines, etc. One company takes them in wholesale by aid of a steam dredge especially fitted for the purpose. Some other valuable varieties are known to the fishermen and manufacturers as the "deerhorn," or "buckhorn," the "butterfly" and the "pearl-mussel."

Dr. Smith reports that in 1896 there was a bed of "niggerheads" and "muskets" in front of Muscatine, Iowa, about two miles long and one-fourth of a mile wide which yielded five hundred tons of shells. The same investigator states that one man may take from eight hundred to one thousand "niggerheads" in a day, and receive about thirty dollars per week for his catch. Some fishermen provide themselves with house-boats which they anchor in convenient places, and in these they stay with their families, doing a good business at shell-fishing throughout the season. In the winter the fishing is not interrupted much as the fish may be taken through large holes cut in the ice.

The author above referred to tells us that the enemies of the shell-fish are the muskrat, mink and raccoon, and the hog, in some parts of the country. Shifting sands, freshets and droughts are very destructive to the mussel beds, and polluted water from the refuse of cities is another fatal foe to these bivalves, thus we see how polluted city water may have an effect upon the price of our collar and cuff buttons. These shell-fish are very slow growers and are taken very easily, and the work of catching, hauling, sorting and soaking for several days in fresh water, in preparation for use, represents a good deal of time and labor.

One of the illustrations herewith shows a fresh-water Pearl-mussel shell from which a number of "blanks" have been cut as if by a cooky-cutter. Not only is it necessary that this operation be performed upon shells which have been kept wet for some time, but during the process of sawing, a jet of water is kept playing on them, to prevent the formation of shell-dust which would be very troublesome to the eyes and air passages of the workmen. The work of holding the shells in proper position before the saw is quite a task, and some of the workmen use gloves for this while others have pliers for that purpose.

The saws are very ingenious little instruments. They are made from flat pieces of steel, about two inches wide, one side of which is provided with fine teeth. These flat pieces are rolled into cylindrical form and accurately fitted into heavy iron holders, which latter are fastened on a lathe, where the saw is revolved upon a horizontal axis. As the button blanks are cut out by the saw they pass back into the hollow tube of the same and drop out into a box at the other end. These blanks are later evened-up, ground to a regular size and pattern, and finished by polishing. After a few other washing and drying operations they are sewed on cards, packed in small boxes and ready to ship off for sale. The daily capacity of the largest factories is said to be from seven hundred to one thousand gross of finished buttons.

A SUIT TO FORCLOSE MORTGAGE IS BEGUN

Marion Savings Bank Company Seeks To Recover.

JUDGE HENDERSON A VISITOR IN CITY

Will Hear Arguments in Case of State of Ohio Against Benjamin Meck—The Case of Thatcher Against Crosby To Be Taken Up Soon—Some Court Items.

A suit to foreclose a mortgage was begun in the court of common pleas by the Marion Savings Bank company against Anna C. Clark and Walter H. Clark, her husband, Thursday. The petition was filed by Attorney J. Wilbur Jacoby.

The plaintiff seeks to recover on a promissory note for $1,358 02 with eight per cent. interest The note was secured by a mortgage on lot No. 5534 in the Shovelton second addition. It is set up in the petition that the mortgage is due and unpaid. It is asked that a receiver be appointed to collect the rents and profits arising from the premises and that the proceeds theretrom be applied to pay the plaintiff.

Judge W. H. Henderson, of Kenton, called on County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter, while on his way to Bucyrus, where he will hear arguments in the case of the State of Ohio against Benjamin Meck, who is chrged with fraud. Meck, through his attorneys, filed a demurrer to the suit against him

Growing out of the Meck action a civil suit was started in the Crawford county court some time ago, against Judge Daniel Babst and the Crawford county prosecuting attorney, wherein Meck seeks to recover damages against them in the sum of $25,000

Both suits have aroused considerable interest throughout the state.

The locally-celebrated will case of Ned E. Thatcher against Frances Crosby and others, is set down for trial next Monday, when Judge W. E. Scofield will be on the bench. The plaintiff, a son of Dr John Thatcher, seeks to have set aside the last will and testament of his father on the ground that he was mentally and physically incompetent to make a will.

EDWARD SPENCER IS PLACED IN THE JAIL

Disrespect and Disobedience Are the Charges Made.

OFFENSES COMMITTED AT A DRILL MEETING

Refuses To Obey Order of Sergeant Ray Miller—D Company Will Attend the Funeral of Late Ward E. Runkle, Who Is Drowned in Indiana—Plans Received.

Edward Spencer, a nineteen-year-old private in D company, Ohio National guard, was arrested and locked up in the county jail, Wednesday night, charged with disrespect and disobedience of a superior Whether the youth will be court-martialed or allowed to rejoin his company after serving several days in prison has not yet been determined

Spencer's alleged offense was committed at a regular drill meeting of D company, Wednesday night. Sergeant Ray Miller, a non-commissioned officer, told him to go to the strong-box and get some ammunition Spencer is declared to have refused to obey the sergeant, and when the latter insisted that he be obeyed, Spencer became disrespectful and abusive.

Sergeant Miller informed First Lieutenant George T. Geran, who was in command in the absence of Captain E. O. Richardson. Lieutenant Geran ordered Spencer committed and detailed a squad to escort the young offender to the county jail. Captain Richardson was informed of Spencer's incarceration Thursday.

Obedience Necessary.

"Members of the local company must learn from the first that they must be obedient and respectful," said Lieutenant Geran Thursday. "That's army discipline."

At Wednesday night's meeting it was decided by the company to attend the funeral of Ward E. Runkle of this city, a soldier in the regular army, who was drowned in White river, near Fort Benjamin Harrison, at Broad Ripple, Indiana The funeral services were held at the Wesley M. E church Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

It was also decided to attend memorial services, in company with the members of the G. A. R., at the Calvary Evangelical church, Sunday morning

Lieutenant George T Geran, of D company, has received and placed on file at the armory the plans and specifications for the new $20,000 armory to be built at the corner of Church street and Olney avenue. The bids will be opened in the office of Adjutant General C. C. Weybrecht, in Columbus.

ANNIVERSARIES CELEBRATED

Ernest Zachman Serves Huber Company Forty Years Thursday.

Ernest Zachman and M. H. Porch Thursday celebrated the anniversaries of their service with the Huber Manufacturing company. Mr. Zachman entered the shops May 23, 1872, just forty years ago, and, with the exception of a short layoff a couple of years ago when he was injured while at work, he has worked continuously. At the time he entered the shop only five men were employed, among them being Benjamin Shupp, who began work in 1868; Milo Lewis, who began in 1870, and Christopher Fies, who entered in 1872. Mr. Porch began working for the company May 23, 1878, thirty-four years ago, and is still in its service.

Among the other early employes are Henry Klehm, who began work in 1873; Philip Ruth, in 1873; George Miley, in 1874; George O'Donnell, in 1877, and Charles Clapsaddle, in 1878. All of these men are still in the service of the company, and hale and hearty

A number of other men are at work in the shops who have been with the company about thirty years.
